THE PATRIOT'S PRAYER.

When drawing near the Mercy Seat, with close-shut closet door,
And closed each avenue of thought where pressed the world before,
With rev'rence let thy spirit bend, as bend the lofty trees,
When o'er their heads sweeps, strong and free, the stormy autumn breeze;
Bow lower than for many a year, oh man of spirit high,
And fervently, with trusting heart, send up this earnest cry—
"Oh, God! to our brave stars and stripes let victory be given,
'Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as 'tis in heaven!'"

When comes the holy day of rest, and God's dear children meet
Within those walls where Jesus comes his followers oft to greet,
While song of praise, like incense sweet, from grateful hearts ascend,
And human eloquence shall oft with heavenly wisdom blend.
Then let the patriot's earnest prayer, oft in his closet breathed,
Be echoed, and the promise claimed where many are agreed;
"Oh, God! to our brave stars and stripes let victory be given,
"Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as 'tis in heaven!"

"Thy kingdom come!" through parted veils the truth shall then be seen,
And as when Christ on Calvary died the earth shall shake again,
Then thrones shall crumble, empires fall, and tyranny be o'er,
And freedom's clarion voice proclaim Christ's reign from shore to shore;
Then shall each soul enslaved be free, and every fetter fall,
And He who gave the victory be crowned the Lord of all!
Well may we pray, "As one step forward, to us be victory given,"
"Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as 'tis in Heaven!"
"Thy will be done!" oh, when, indeed, Thy law is here obeyed,
Before the righteous rulers shall the evil be afraid,
Then fraud and falsehood, demons dread, their sable wings shall fold,
And not a Judas sell this land for silver or for gold;
Then 'neath his vine and fig tree the patriot saint shall dwell,
And praise that guiding Providence, "who doeth all things well,"
And sing with voice melodious, like that to seraphs given,
"Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as 'tis in heaven!"

A NEW HAIR OIL.

Dave and Robert, two young men, noted for their careful toilets, boarded at a house where the servant girls take their share of hair oils, tooth washes, and use the hair brushes and cologne water regardless of expense. The young men, rooming together, were in the habit of getting a pint of hair oil made up by the druggist at a time; and finally they were in the habit of finding that a pint of this costly hair oil wouldn't last a week, and that all the servant girls in the house emitted the same perfume that they did. It was not long before they came to a conclusion in the matter. So one evening, when the hair oil cruise was empty, they took the bottle which contained it, and straight they went to the drug store.—There was a clerk, and a mixture of various articles in a pint bottle, and the following was marked on the prescription book as the contents:

"Of lac assafœtida, which, for the information of our readers we will state, is a highly concentrated extract of that delicious drug—of this one ounce.

"Of liquor potasse, (a fluid celebrated for its corrosive quality, having the power of taking the hair off a dog in ten seconds,) half an ounce.

"Of balsam fir, (the stickiest and gumiest article known,) one ounce.

"Of honey, one ounce.

"Of alcohol, to make the ingredients fluid, half a pint."

This was well "shuck," and deposited in the usual place occupied by the hair oil. The next day (Sunday), Dave and Bob dressed themselves for church, and after finishing, traveled down stairs. But they came up another way in a few minutes, and secreted themselves in a room adjoining theirs, where they could see everything that went on. After the people of the house had gone, two or three servant girls came into Dave's room.

"Whist, Molly," said a large, red-headed one, "Misther Dave has more of the ile, and my hair is as dhry as powdher; let's have a regular fix up wid the folks all away."

This was acceded to, and they all went to oiling their looks, being very lavish of the fluid, which was quite thin, in consequence of the alcohol. In a few minutes red head says:

"Whirri, what smils so?" with her nose turned skyward.

"Sure its the parfume," interrupted a short and dumpy specimen, with her hair down her back.

"Parfume, indade," says the red head, "that's not parfume, it's the rale bad smell."

"Mebby," says the dumpy, "its the Patch Chewley. I've heard folks say that Patch Chewley smills dreadful at fust; a person must get used to the smill before they likes it. Sure it's a parfume used by the quality."

This satisfied red-head, and after a thorough "ileing" they left the room. In about two hours the boarders came home from church.

"Good gracious, what is it? Bless my soul, Mr. G., I shall faint! Oh, my dear, there must be an unclean animal in the room!" and a thousand other expressions were heard, as the boarders got a sniff at the "Patch Chewley," when they entered the house. The master and mistress of the house were puzzled, confounded, indignant, and in vain endeavored to discover the locality of the smell. At dinner time there were not a half dozen boarders at the table, and those that were there were rapidly thinking of backing out, as the three girls who were "iled" were waiting on them.

Finally dinner was given up, and with doors and windows opened, the inmates alternately froze and suffocated. The day was a dire one to them, but it soon wore away.

At night the three girls attempted to comb their hair. The alcohol had evaporated, leaving the balsam of fir and honey, and they might as well have attempted to comb a bunch of shingles. At the first dash that red-head made, her comb caught, and influenced by the potasse at the roots, the whole mass of the front hair came off red-head's cranium, which she discovered with a yell that would have made a cannibal envious. The same result attended the rest of the hair, with the exception of enough to do up as a scalp-lock, to ornament with feathers, in Indian style. The two other girls met the same fate, and about ten o'clock that night they might have been seen wrapping up their lost "Patch Chewley" locks in pieces of paper. The next morning they were informed by the mistress that she did not desire to employ bald-headed servant-girls, and with their "chists" they departed in almost a scalped condition.

The discovery of Dave and Bob's connection with the transaction was not known till lately, but their toilet articles since then have been as sacred from touch as the tomb of Palestine.

A LIFE-LONG DUEL.

One of the most curious duels under the empire, was one that had lasted nineteen years. It had its origin at Strasburg. A captain of hussars, Fournier by name, and a "bretteur forcene," killed, under the most frivolous pretext, a youth of the name of Blumm, who was the only support of a family. The evening that Blumm was buried, Gen Moreau gave a ball, and he gave instructions to his aid-de-camp, Dupont, to refuse admission to Fournier. The latter, irritated, challenged the aid-de-camp for carrying out his general's orders, but luckily the latter came off best, and wounded the bully. But a month having elapsed, Fournier had so far recovered as to be able to call Dupont out again, and this time it was the latter's turn to be placed hors de combat. Being about to meet a third time, Fournier, who used to amuse himself by knocking the pipes out of his brother officers, mouths when riding by, proposed pistols. But to this Dupont naturally declined to accede, and they fought once more with swords, both being slightly wounded. The two antagonists became generals without having ceased to fight whenever an occasion presented itself. One night Dupont arrived at a village in the Grisons, so poor that there was not an inn in the place. There was only a light in one lone hut. Dupont opened the door and found himself face to face with Fournier.

"What, you," he said gayly. "Well, then, we must have a bout with the sword."

And so saying, they set to work, conversing all the time. At length Dupont pierced Fournier's neck, and held him pinned against the wall at arm's length.

"Come now," he remarked, "you must acknowledge that you did not anticipate that trick."

"Oh! I know one quite as good as that. When you are obliged to let go, I will give you one in the abdomen that will give your bowels fresh air."

"Thank you, but I won't let go. I shall pass the night in this position."

"A pleasant perspective! Do you know that I am not at all at my ease?"

"Let go your sword then, and I will let you go."

"No, not till I have disemboweled you."

Luckily the noise brought some officers who separated these inveterate enemies.

But after a lapse of time Dupont wished to marry. This he could not very well do so long as Fournier was alive. So he went to Paris to find him out.

"Ah! you here?" said Fournier. "We shall have another little bout then."

"Yes," replied Dupont, "but listen to me for a moment first. I wan't to get married, but to do so I must get rid of you. So this time we will fight with pistols."

"What are you mad said Fournier astonished?"

"No. I know your skill, but I propose to equalize the combat. There is a little wood near Neuitly. I propose that we go there, and that, after getting out of sight of one another, we shall track each other at our convenience."

"Agreed to. But don't think about marriage for I promise you you shall die a bachelor."

On the day appointed, Fournier and Dupont entered the wood. Each advanced stealthily through the thicket, till their eyes met in the foliage. Each at the same moment rushed behind a tree.—The position was a delicate one. Dupont passed the tail of his coat behind the trunk. It was struck in a moment by a ball that whistled by.

"So much for one," said the general.

A few moments more elapsed, when, holding his pistol, pointing with his left hand, as if about to fire, he pushed his hat out with his right. It was struck in a second.

"That is the last," said Dupont; and he walked, pistol in hand, right upon Fournier, "Your life belongs to me," he said, "but I will not take it."

"Just as you like," replied the hussar.

"Only remember this, I preserve the rights which I suspend to-day. And if ever you cross my path, I will shoot you like a dog."

And thus ended the long succession of duels, which, altogether, had been carried on for nineteen years.

WELLINGTON FACING A MOB.

One morning in February, I noticed threatening crowds near the Pall Mall gate, not far from the statue of Archilles. This statue was cast from cannons taken in the Iron Duke's various battles, and was dedicated "To Arthur, Duke of Wellington, by the Woman of England." I determined to watch the Duke, and see what was going to be done. Punctual to the moment, descended the steps of Apsley House, his residence. His appearance was imposing. He was at the head of the Cabinet, Premier of England, and he was par excellance the first man in England.

It was a drizzly morning. He wore a blue frock coat, buttoned up to the chin, a military stock, and brown pantaloons.—His falcon eye surveyed the excited groups about the Park gate with a sort of pleasant contempt. The mob was either awed by his appearance and prestige, or they had not yet screwed their courage to the insulting point. The Duke passed on horseback, attended by his faithful valet. Nobody molested him till he reached his office. There the mob hissed him; but when he turned around and faced them, the hissing ceased. He then quietly entered his office. As I knew the hour he would leave Downing street to return to the Park, I was there in due season. The neighborhood of the Horse Guards probably deterred a good many of the excited fanatics from gathering about the office, but numbers were gathered. The Duke, who was punctuality itself, came out at the appointed moment, and mounted his horse amid groans and hisses. After he passed the Horse Guards, the noise increased to shouts. When he passed the Chairing Cross and entered Pall Mall, the mob began to throw missiles and dirt.—Near Pall Mall gate, there was a whirlpool of human beings, eddying around in strange, wild, and yet in a sort of symmetrical confusion. I feared that they would murder him there. As he approached the gate, a good deal spattered with mud and dirt, the mob, as if compelled by some higher power than that of earth, made a lane for him to pass. For a moment they seem awed, and appeared to relent. But when he had entered the gate, their violence rose to fury. He dismounted with difficulty, placed his back against the rails of the statue of Archilles, and calmly faced his furious assailants. I shall never forget that moment. Thoughts and feelings took mystery of my nature then that have swayed me ever since. Not one word did he utter. There was no shrinking—not even a cloud of apprehension upon that glorious face. Oh, how infinitely small and contemptible his assailants looked? How great his man! How little are men!

There was a lull in the storm of shouts, and missiles, and dirt, and an old Irishman with a wooden leg, bustled his way to the side of the Duke. This man sold apples and oranges by the Hyde Park gate, and his basket had been upset by the mob. When he had reached the iron Duke, he stood by his side, and unbound his wooden leg, and made a speech that immediately subdued the monster. He began:

"My curse on you for cowardly scoundrels! If you have pluck come and fight me. Let it be two of us against you all. Come and kill us both. This is your fair play; this is English justice! Thousands against one! Think of Waterloo! But for him and us, Boney would have beaten ye! I've got my wooden leg for fighting for ye—ye villains!—and are ye goin' to pay him by murtherin' him, ye bloody scoundrels! Come on, but come one at a time, not like cowards and ruffians as ye are all together!"

The speech was a mighty success. The mob was ashamed and calmed, and began to sneak away. Wellington gave a smile of recognition to the man who had saved his life, and ever after he amply provided for him, as he did for many others, out of his own private fortune, in his own quiet, noiseless way.

FEMALE DARING.

One hundred years ago, a lady came to Birmingham with a handsome equipage, and desired the landlord of the inn to get her a husband, being determined to marry somebody or other before she left the town.

The man bowed, and supposed the lady to be in a facetious humor, but being made sensible how much she was in earnest, he went out in search of a man who would marry a fine lady, without asking questions. After many repulses from poor fellows who were not desperate enough for such a venture, he met with an exciseman, who said "he could not be in a worse condition than he then was," and accordingly went with the inn keeper and made tender of himself, which was all he had to bestow on the lady, who immediately went with him to one who gave them a license, and made them man and wife, on which the bride gave her spouse two hundred pounds, and without more delay left the town, and the bridegroom to find out who she was, or unravel this strange adventure. Soon after she was gone, two gentlemen came into the town in full pursuit of her; they had traced her so far upon the road, and finding the inn where she put up, they examined into all the particulars of her conduct, and hearing that she had married, gave up their pursuit and returned back. 'Tis supposed the young lady, in a desperate fit, for fear of being married to one whom she did not like, chose this unaccountable way of preventing it.

The Late Colonel Baker—Almost a Propheoy.

When the lamented Col. E. D. Baker was in Congress, in a debate in Committee of the Whole, he was assailed as a foreigner by Mr. Venable, of North Carolina, a Democratic partizan. Below is the reply which he made at the time, in which he seems to have foreshadowed the present unhappy conflict in which the country is engaged, as well as his own brave defence of his country and her Constitution and flag. The extract will be read with interest by many of his friends and admirers:

I have bared my bosom to the battle on the Northwestern frontier in my youth and on the Southwestern frontier in my manhood. I have earned somewhat of the good will of my country. In the councils of my state for a period of ten consecutive years, and in her service here, my constituents have confided in my devotion to their interests and my attachment to the Union. I have only to say that if the time should come when disunion should rule the hour, and discord is to reign supreme, I shall again be ready to give the best blood in my veins to my country's cause. I shall be prepared to meet all antagonists with lance in rest to do battle in every land in defense of the Constitution of my country, which I have sworn to support, to the last extremity, against disunionists whether of the South or the North—to meet them everywhere, at all times, with speech or hand, with word or blow, until thought or being shall be mine no longer.

ACCEPTING A TRACT.—A colporteur some time ago, when engaged in distributing tracts among the poor benighted ones about town, met with an amusing incident. Coming to an isolated building, of humble pretensions on the common, he opened the door without the ceremony of knocking, saying:—

"Will you accept a tract of the Holy Land?" meaning the four pages of letter-press he had in his hand. The man of the house instantly replied:

"Yes, be jabers, a whole action if you give a good title. But I'd like to know if there be much prarie or ague there to bother a poor devil."

☞ A schoolmaster asked one of his boys, on a cold winter morning, what was the Latin word for cold. He hesitated a little when the master said—"What, sirrah, can't you tell?" "Yes, sir," said the boy, "I have it at my finger ends."

☞ When we behold a beautiful mother with lovely children around her, we are reminded of those trees which blossom in October, and whose fruit and blossoms are on the bough at once.

☞ If you have great talents, industry will improve them; if moderate abilities, industry will supply their deficiencies. Nothing is denied to well directed labor; Nothing is ever to be attained without it.

☞ The mind of a man of genius is a focus which concentrates in one burning beam the languid light and fires of ten thousand surrounding minds.

A Day of Thanksgiving and Praise.

Pennsylvania, ss.

In the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, ANDREW G. CURTIN, Governor of said Commonwealth.

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, Every good gift is from above and comes down to us from the Almighty, to whom it is meet, right and the bounden duty of every people to render thanks for His mercies; Therefore I, ANDREW G. CURTIN, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do recommend to the people of this Commonwealth that they set apart

THURSDAY, the 28th day of November next,

as a day of solemn Thanksgiving to God, for having prospered our corn and watered our furrows, and blessed the labors of the husbandman, and crowned the year with His goodness, in the increase of the ground and the gathering in of the fruits thereof, so that our barns are filled with plenty; And for having looked favorably on this Commonwealth and strengthened the bars of her gates and blessed the children within her, and made us men to be of one mind, and preserved peace in her borders; Beseeching Him also on behalf of these United States, that our beloved country may have deliverance from these great and apparent dangers wherewith she is compassed, and that He will mercifully still the outrage of perverse, violent, unruly and rebellious people, and make them clean hearts, and renew a right spirit within them, and give them grace that they may see the error of their ways and bring forth fruits meet for repentance, and hereafter, in all godliness and honesty, obediently walk in His holy commandments, and in submission to the just and manifest authority of the republic, so that we, leading a quiet and peaceable life, may continually offer unto Him our sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving.

SEAL

GIVEN under my hand and the great seal of the State at Harrisburg, this sixteenth day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and of the Commonwealth the eighty-sixth.

Secretary of the Commonwealth.

War News.

Exciting war news is scarce this week. We are continually assured by the army reporters for the daily papers that a forward movement is to be made by the army of the Potomac in a few days, but the "few days" are as long coming as the "good times" so often sung about. The last report is that Gen. McCall will certainly advance on Leesburg this week and occupy it, making it his winter quarters. An advance in the direction of Fairfax Court-House is also put down in the programme. The Potomac, which was to have been cleared of rebel batteries in less than ten days, some two weeks since, still remains in statu quo, if, indeed, the rebels have not increased their strength and fortifications.

In Eastern Tennessee the Union feeling is rising and it is to be hoped that the Union men of that section may receive aid from the Federal troops sufficient to enable them to pass from under the sway of the Southern oligarchs and wheel into the line of the Union.

From Missouri we have not much of interest. Time must necessarily elapse ere the new commanders in that department become sufficiently acquainted with the army and the country to make forward movements; and it is now about time they should look out for regular winter quarters.

We have news from Fort Pickens and Pensacola, through rebel sources, to the effect that Fort Pickens has commenced shelling the Pensacola navy yard, assisted by the war steamers Niagara and Colorado, both of which were damaged and had to be hauled off. The navy yard was on fire two or three times but the flames were each time extinguished. The action is reported to have commenced on the 19th instant.

There is much speculation as to the probable effect, in England, of the arrest of Mason and Slidell, on board a British Mail steamer. We will not speculate thereon, believing that England will do no more than request a full statement of the affair and then drop it. She has been guilty of the same thing too often herself.

☞ Many of the most intimate friends of Gen. Scott believe that he will never return to this country, and some are of the opinion that if the Arago should encounter a rough passage he will not live to reach Europe. It is not known that when he left he was in a condition of extreme debilitation, and that his resignation was only made under the pressure of the most urgent physical necessity. Up to the time of Bull Run he bore the fatigues of his duties well for his age, but from that day the pressure on mind and body was too great, and the noble wreck is now all that remains of the first warrior of the age.

Pittsburgh Female College

We learn that the examination of the classes of this flourishing institution will take place on Wednesday, December 5th. The usual literary entertainment will be given in the evening of the following day. We are pleased to learn that the attendance the present term, despite the hard times, is one hundred and seventy-six, an advance on any previous term in the history of the College. These pupils hail from almost every part of the land, from Kansas in the far West, to Philadelphia in our own State. No institution in the land has grown more rapidly in public favor both at home and abroad, and no one affords greater facilities for obtaining all the elements of a solid and ornamental education. The circulum of studies is unsurpassed, and the large and able faculty of teachers are untiring in their efforts to secure the advancement of those placed under their tuition. We are especially pleased with the efforts made by the trustees to continue the useful with the ornamental, and to open to young ladies new means of obtaining a livelihood. In addition to the Telegraph, referred to by us on a former occasion, and which is a decided success, a fine large organ has been purchased of Mr. Jardine, in New York, and will be ready for use by the commencement of next term. It is sufficient to state that instructions will be given on it by Prof. Rohbock, so well and favorably known as a music teacher.

The prospects for the next term, which will commence December 9th, are of the most flattering character, and we advise those at a distance, who wish to attend to make application immediately.

NEW COUNTY OFFICERS.—The new county officers, elected in October last, have all assumed the duties of their offices. James M. Kinkead, Esq., has been sworn in as Commissioner, and takes the place of Enos M. Jones, Esq. The old board came in for a full share of kicks and clouts from political opponents and disappointed applicants for favors, but we think we will be borne out in asserting that they performed their duties faithfully and to the best interests of the tax-payers.—Messrs. Cowan and Koon are practical business men, in whose hands the funds of the county are safe, and additional safety, if it were needed, is secured by the association of Mr. Kinkead.

Samuel McCamant, Esq., has entered upon his duties as Sheriff, in room of Jas. Funk, Esq. In Sheriff Funk the county had a straightforward, honest and energetic officer, who shrank from no responsibility and rendered justice to all. In Sheriff McCamant we have a man well worthy the office. We have heretofore spoken of his qualifications for the position, and, therefore, shall add nothing further. But this we may be allowed to predict, that when he retires from office it will be acknowledged that he was one of the best Sheriff's the county ever had.

Joseph Baldridge, Esq., has vacated the Prothonotary's office, after filling it for six years with great credit to himself and the entire satisfaction of the people of the county, to make room for Anthony S. Morrow, Esq. Mr. Morrow will, we think, be an acceptable and popular officer, as he is every inch a gentleman.

WHAT IT IS TO FEED AN ARMY.—The Union forces, regulars and volunteers now in the field and in course of organization, amount, in round numbers, to six hundred and fifty thousand men. It may be interesting to know what an army of this strength will consume in one month. We therefore append the following figures, which are strictly correct:

14,625,000	pounds of pork, or 24,375 pounds of fresh beef.
136,994	barrels of flour.
48,750	bushels of beans, or 1,950,000 pounds of rice.
1,950,000	pounds of coffee.
2,892,000	pounds of sugar.
195,000	gallons of vinegar.
12,249	bushels of salt.
8,580,000	pounds of potatoes.

The supply of candles is 292,500 pounds each week, and of soap 780,000 pounds.

GOING INTO THE ARMY.—We notice that friend Brown, of the Centre Democrat, late Treasurer of Centre county, is enlisting a company of "Sharp-Shooters" for the three years' service. He publishes a flaming appeal to the patriots of Centro to rally around the old flag, and we feel sure that all who place themselves under the care and guidance of "Bill Brown" will fare well and have an officer of whom they will never feel ashamed.—Success to Brown and his "Sharp-Shooters."

CAPTURE OF THE PIRATE BEAUREGARD—A despatch from New York, dated Nov. 26th, says that the steamship George Peabody arrived from Key West, reports that the pirate Beauregard has been captured by the gun boat G. W. Anderson, of Boston, with twenty-seven prisoners and one long pivot gun on the deck. The pirate was lying at Key West.

OUR ARMY CORRESPONDENCE.

[We extract the following from a letter addressed to the junior editor of this paper.—Although not originally intended for publication, we give it a place in our columns, thinking it may interest our readers. The author will pardon us and please write soon again:]

CAMP OHIO, near Washington,
November 20, 1861.

MY DEAR BROTHER:—You will pardon all seeming negligence on my part, when I tell you that this is the first time I have had, since my arrival here, to write. When we arrived in this city we were assigned to quarters in the Park House, on the west end of Seventh street, which was quite cozy and comfortable; but soldiers are not expected to enjoy such comforts very long, as we discovered, about the 1st inst., when a courier arrived, at a full gallop, bearing in his hand something that looked like a "sealed order." Every one was on the qui vive, and anxious to know the contents. Some said we were to cross the river; others that we were to move west; but soon the bugle notes of the Orderly Sergeant, "fall in!" was heard above the din and confusion, and the order was read to "pack up and leave in ten minutes." It was raining in torrents, and the wind blew bleak and chilly over the north-west hills, making us shiver and shrink from it, even under the cover of our great-coats, which we drew closely around us. In ten minutes' time every man had responded to his name, and we buckled on our sabres, and bade farewell to our old camp, leaving it to those who come to take our place; and with a sigh of regret, not from associations, but for lost comforts, we turned our backs upon Camp Park, and, through the mists and shades of evening and night, wended our way to our present camp—right in the pine woods, clearing away the brush as best we could; and although but few of our men had ever seen a tent pitched before, we soon had them up, when we commenced preparing a cold supper for cold and hungry men, after which we huddled together in our tents and soon forgot the fatigue and toils of the day in a sound and refreshing sleep, in which the dreams of home, the dear ones left behind, made the picture bright, and the hours flew silently by, to bring the morn and the stern duties of the soldier.

But now we have got our camp fixed up, so that one who saw it a week ago would not now know it was the same. Camp Ohio is about six miles from the City of Washington, and we have named it from our own State—Ohio—we being the only Ohio troops in the Army of the Potomac. It is in the centre of a grove of young pines, whose dark green branches, although the season is far advanced, make us forget while we look up among them, that the oak and the hickory are shedding their green robes, ready to receive the winter blasts with bare and bristling arms. In the midst of them I now sit, penning these lines, while the shrill blast of bugle, and the soul-stirring notes of the drums around me, bring back the realities of my position, and the reason why I am here. Going out upon the road to the east of our camp, on the surrounding hills, seven fortifications may be seen with the naked eye, and in some the yawning mouth of the painted cannon may be seen, looking defiance to the rebels and their infatuated leaders. The numbers and strength of the different camps around here I cannot give; suffice it to say, if the men who are now here have the right kind of leaders—those that will do their duty by the men as the men do their duty as soldiers—the death-warrant of treason is already signed by the dark hand of fate, and the trumpet that sounds the charge in the coming battle, sounds the death-knell of secession. How far this evil of incompetency in officers has been remedied, I am neither able nor permitted to say, but I hope that none hold responsible positions, here or elsewhere, but those who are able and competent for all their duties; forgetting the petty considerations of position, in the great desire for the common good, and with willing hands working together with those beneath them in rank, for one end—Constitutional liberty.

That a man is better (because he is elected to command a body of men,) than the men who elected him, is more than I can see; for what of dignity and distinction he gains is only gained through them. As well might the flower despise the dusty bulb that nourished the stem, for separate them and the flower dies. When officers without military knowledge, without age and experience, assume to be what they are not, and by invitation would ape their superiors, then there is little to be expected of those who are under them; and in such cases it would be well, when trouble arises, to look not only to the men, but to both officers and men, for if this is not done the really innocent may suffer, while the really culpable may go unpunished.

Volunteer companies, in choosing their officers, should consider well who is to command them, for in his hands, to a great extent, they place both their reputation and their lives, and the guardian should be worthy of the trust.

I make these remarks because of the frequency of removals in the volunteer corps, of men who are addicted to drunkenness and other vices, which make it very unpleasant to the men. One of our Lieutenants is now under arrest for endeavoring to raise a mutiny in the camp, and the other one is to be tried for incompetency and inefficiency. The Captain is a thorough-going business man, and in every way capable.

G. F. D.

U. S. A., NEAR FALLS VILLAGE, VA.,
Wednesday, Nov. 20, 1861.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Oh! but the weather is cold, down here in "Dixie," and windy without cessation. If the weather don't moderate, or we are not soon removed from this place to a more Southern location, we will begin to imagine Virginia a portion of the frozen regions. It feels more like the North Frigid Zone than a part of the "Sunny South." How fortunate that wood is plenty!—and we make good use of it. Nearly every tent has a large fire in front of it, sometimes two or three feet high, around which the men gather to enjoy the comforts, such as they afford. But, alas for the comforts derived therefrom! Such a rubbing of smoky eyes is rarely seen, and such a grumbling seldom heard. We stand before the fire until our eyes are almost blinded with smoke, and our backs pierced with the cold North-wester, when we turn, as it were, our backs upon both our friend and enmey. Then, while our backs are getting comfortably warm, our faces are uncomfortably cool; and our shoes and the legs of our pants get warmer still, owing to their close proximity to the fire, and the consequence is that nearly every fellow has the legs of his pants burned in holes; and this is the case throughout the entire regiment. Some of the men have dug holes, to the depth of two or three feet, inside of their tents, in imitation of a fire-place, and thence under the side of the tent to a similar hole on the outside, over which they build a chimney. It is really astonishing how comfortable a tent can thus be made, and the time employed in the operation is only about two or three hours.

I suppose you are aware that several of our troops were captured by the Rebels, a few days since, while out foraging.* The capture of men who are silly enough to leave their guns—which should never be out of their hands, or reach, while out of camp—exposed as they were, is not much to be regretted, and I think there are plenty of better men to take their places. I learn that two or three of the Rebel cavalry were taken by our pickets recently, which may prove a fair exchange.

The other day the 9th Massachusetts regiment buried the first man of their regiment who has died since they have been in the service.—The difference between our regiment and theirs, in that respect, is very great—our company alone having buried at least two, and they some time ago. Besides we have continually some half a dozen or more on the sick (?) list. Perhaps our skirmishing and picket duty is too severe on us, and is the cause of so much sickness! (We have been once on picket, and once on picket reserve.) We drill regularly twice every day with the regiment. I suppose that is indispensable to our proficiency as a regiment.

Yesterday we received light-blue pants, the same as the rest of the regiment. What we will receive in lieu of the blouse I am unable to say, but that matters little. A man can fight as well in one uniform as another. I think our regiment, with Col. Black to lead it, will fight as well as any other in the service. We are now known as the 62d regiment—another, as I understand, having taken precedence as the 33d. However, the number of the regiment is of little or no importance. In directing letters, the important matter is the name of the Colonel and the letter of the company; also, the destination—Washington City, D. C.—that being the termination of the regular mail route. The position of regiments being so uncertain, each one provides its own carrier, who brings all mail matter directly to the regiment.

Yesterday the expected review of the Army of the Upper Potomac came off at Ball's Cross Roads, near Munson's Hill. We started to the place with 20 rounds of ball cartridge, expecting to find occasion to use them, but in this we were disappointed. We started about 7 o'clock in the morning and arrived there about 10 o'clock, travelling in a circuitous direction, in order, no doubt, to prevent the enemy, who I believe are in sight of us, from observing our movements. I understand there was 90 regiments of infantry, 21 batteries of artillery, (consisting of over 100 guns,) and 7 regiments of cavalry, amounting to about 70,000 men.—There were a large number of men engaged on picket duty, and at this particular time the picket guard was doubled. Had the whole Army of the Upper Potomac been on the field, the number would have exceeded 100,000 men. This immense number of men marched in review past Maj. Gen. McClellan, who was accompanied by the President and Secretary of War. Many of us had never seen the one-seventieth part of such an army before that day. There were troops from Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, California and Minnesota, that I saw, as well as thousands that I could not distinguish. On our return to camp we passed by the fort on Munson's Hill, and along the Leesburg Pike to Falls Village where we took the "near cut" through the fields, to our camp. A more hungry and tired set of men than we were when we got home would be difficult to find. I have not yet learned the result of this grand review, and perhaps you will learn it before I can inform you. I am inclined to think our regiment fully sustained its reputation. We have not yet received our pay, but patiently await it every day.

W. I. BLAIN.

[* The circumstance here alluded to is the capture of a foraging party, composed of some thirty-one men and five wagons, sent out for corn. They were returning with the corn, and while on the way the men laid down their guns and went off the road some distance to a spring to get a drink. While doing so, a party of Rebel cavalry dashed in between them and their guns and succeeded in capturing the guns and several of the men.—EDS.]

PEN AND SCISSORS.

☞ A rare curiosity—an alligator's wind pipe.

☞ A rarer curiosity—verdancy in a printing office.

☞ Price to be marked down—Price of Missouri.

☞ Bullets can sing and whistle but they are not pleasant musicians.

☞ The "Movement Cure" for Southern convulsions—double-quick with the bayonet.

☞ The way Floyd saved his bacon when Reynold's was after him—by "Big Springs."

☞ Little sincerity is to be expected between belligerents. Even their cannon ball arguments are all irony.

☞ A brace of nice chaps—the editors of the democratic papers in Mifflintown—if we may believe all they say of each other.

☞ The Hagerstown Torch Light notices the death of an interesting child of Dr. C. B. Doran, of that place, from the effects of eating unripe persimons.

☞ Not hard to take—a dinner of canvass back, when "done up brown," in Logan House style, and accompanied with green currant pie, etc., etc. Thank you, Colonel.

☞ One of the nurses at Poolsville recently approached the cot on which a wounded soldier of the Massachusetts Fifteenth Regiment was lying, and asked him, "Is there anything which you think of that you want?" "Yes, an Enfield rifle," was the quick reply. It will be remembered that most of the regiment had smoothe bores.

☞ Senator Gwin, of California, was arrested in Panama, while on his way to New York, on account of his secession proclivities.

☞ An order has been issued from headquarters to arrest military officers at places of amusement, when found in company with friends of easy virtue.

☞ It is not at all remarkable that the only man found by the Union troops, at Beaufort, was drunk, as all will admit that he was in a pretty tight place.

☞ The volunteers at Washington, during two days, sent home to their families nearly fifty thousand dollars. It is estimated that they will send over $200,000 during this week.

☞ Capt. A. J. Crissman, attached to Col. Murray's regiment, has been presented with a handsome sword and belt, bearing the inscription:—"Presented to Capt. A. J. Crissman, by his friends, Martinsburg, Pa."

☞ The Huntingdon Globe says there are three societies in active operation in that place, for the benefit of the soldiers. One by the married ladies, another by the marriageable ladies, and the other by those who think they are eligible to that position.

☞ Well done Westmoreland—this patriotic county has furnished about seventeen hundred men for the war. Thirteen full companies of volunteers have been recruited there, besides one hundred for the regular service, and some three hundred for outside companies.

☞ Neighbor Traugh tells us to look out for counterfeit five dollar notes on the Mechanics' Bank of Philadelphia. We have been so long on the "look out" for genuine bills of that denomination, without seeing any, that we do not feel the least bit afraid of being "taken in" on the bogus concerns.

☞ Patriotic—The "Pennsylvania Thirteenth," the organ of Colonel Rowley's Regiment, says in its last issue:—"We won't go home 'til!"—the safety of the Union is assured. If we have wives, they can get husbands easier than they can get a country. If we have gals, they can select boys among the Home Guards if they can't wait for us; so we are content to await the issue of events, and they can await any other issue that may turn up in the future."

☞ A prophecy fulfilled.—The Boston Transcript recalls the fact that when the Union Committee from Boston visited Washington last January, Mr. Mason, in reply to the wish expressed that he might again visit that city, said: "I shall not go to Boston again except as an ambassador." His prophecy is fulfilled in a way he did not expect. He goes as an ambassador shorn of his plumes and the butt of ridicule, like the jackdaw that was stripped of the peacock's feathers.

MILITARY UNIFORMS.—There is, perhaps, no department of military business in which there has been a more marked improvement than in the clothing of soldiers.—Not many years since, officers and privates were clad in garments which were almost skin-tight. They wore leather stocks, which were worthy of the name, for they kept the wearer in tribulation; while their padded breasts and tight sleeves made volition a matter of great difficulty. During the present war, such of our volunteers as procure their uniforms at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street above Sixth, Philadelphia, obtain clothing that is perfectly easy, substantial and becoming. The firm named have gone largely into the business of making Military Clothing, and their facilities enable them to fill the largest orders in the shortest possible time.

A Card to the Suffering.

The Rev. Wm. Cosgrove, while laboring as a missionary in Japan, was cured of Consumption, when all other means had failed, by a recipe obtained from a learned physician residing in the great city of Jeddo. This recipe has cured great numbers who were suffering from Consumption, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Coughs and Colds, and the debility and nervous depression caused by these disorders.

Desirous of benefitting others, I will send this recipe, which I brought home with me, to all who need it, free of charge.

A pure healthy tonic, and one free from the deleterious and injurious effects sure to follow those in ordinary use, has long been felt to be a desideratum in the medical world. Such a tonic, and one so skillfully combined from the vegetable kingdom as to act in perfect accordance with the laws of nature, and thus soothe the weakest stomach, and at the same time allay nervous and other irritations, and tone up all the organs of which the human body is composed, is offered in Prof. Wood's Renovating Cordial and Blood Renovator. Hence it is perfectly adapted to old and young. Reader, try it. Thousands have already done so, and the testimony is universal in its favor. Do not fail to read the advertisement in our paper.

JAYNE'S SANATIVE PILLS,

A MILD, PROMPT & EFFECTIVE REMEDY.

THERE is scarcely any disease in which purgative medicines are not required; and much distress and suffering might be prevented were they more generally used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides, it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might be avoided by the timely and judicious use of proper Cathartic medicines.

Convinced of the correctness of these views,

JAYNE'S SANATIVE PILLS

Are recommended with the greatest confidence, experience having demonstrated them to be far superior to any other in use, being more mild, prompt, safe and uniform in their operation. While using them no particular care is required, and patients may eat and drink as usual. Age will not impair them, as to always readily dissolve in the stomach. In small doses they are alterative and gently laxative, but in large doses are actively cathartic, cleansing the whole alimentary canal from all putrid, irritating and fecal matters.

For DYSPEPSIA, these Pills are really an invaluable article, gradually changing the vitiated secretions of the Stomach and Liver, and producing healthy action in those important organs. In cases of long standing, a cure will be more speedily effected by using, in conjunction with the Pills, either JAYNE'S ALTERATIVE or TONIC VERMIFUGE, according to directions.

For Liver Complaint, Gout, Jaundice, Affections of the Bladder and Kidneys, Fevers, Nervousness, Diseases of the Skin, Impurity of the Blood, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Piles, Female Diseases, and Billious Affections, these Pills have proved themselves eminently successful. All that is asked for them is a fair trial.

As these Pills have proved themselves so eminently successful in removing diseases of the Liver, Dyspepsia and diseases of the Skin, I have thought it advisable to add the following remarks on

LIVER COMPLAINT.

This is a disease much talked about, but at the same time very imperfectly understood.

Properly speaking, every derangement of the Liver or Billious system is a Liver Complaint, but the peculiar office of the Liver to which I now have reference is a Chronic Affection, and usually arises from a torpid or congested state of that important organ. Sometimes the bile is deficient in quantity, or vitiated in quality, or both these states prevail at the same time. Sometimes the disease arises owing to obstruction in the duct or pipe which conducts the bile from the liver into the bowels. This obstruction is very frequent, and is usually caused by the pipe being clogged up by thick tenacious slime or mucous, and sometimes by gall stones. The bile is then thrown back into the gall-bladder, where it is absorbed by numerous small vessels which convey it into the Thoracic Duct, a pipe that runs up along the spine, and terminates in and empties itself into the large vein of the left shoulder, near the junction with the veins of the head and neck, and thence the bile is conveyed to the heart and becomes mixed with the blood. The bile in this manner being diverted from its proper course, and circulating in a part of the body where it never was designed by nature, produces much evil, and often disastrous effects upon the health of the individual—because, for want of healthy bile to mix with the half-digested food, a complete separation never takes place between the chyle (the milky liquor which forms the blood) and those portions of the food designed by nature to be ejected from the bowels—for the bile, when present, purifies and separates the healthy from the unhealthy portions, in the same manner that isinglass or white of eggs separate wine or cider from their impurities—and, consequently, the very fountain of life is vitiated and corrupted. Costiveness prevails—or alternately costiveness or diarrhœa—wind in the stomach and bowels, and the patient is often annoyed with worms, and frequently with piles. The coarse particles of the bile thus mixed with the blood more or less obstruct the pores of the skin and small blood vessels, and hence give rise to various diseases of the skin, such as erysipelas, eczema, itchings, small watery vesicles, blotches tumors, pimples, scurfiness, boils, sore eyes, sore and ulcers of various kinds. The skin is more or less yellow, and (when the disease is of long standing,) often very dark, and has a disagreeable, dirty, greasy appearance, and sometimes there is a perfect jaundice. The white of the eyes also has a green or yellow tinge.

MORE OR LESS bile is strained from the blood in its passage through the kidneys, and, by its acrimony, produces pains in the back, and scalds and irritates all the urinary passages. Some days the passage of urine is profuse, and natural in appearance; at other times it is scanty, and the desire to evacuate is frequent and urgent. Sometimes the color is nearly white and milky, but usually it is high colored, red or yellow, with a rank, offensive odor, and sometimes it is bloody.

The tongue is usually more or less coated with a brown scurf. There is irritation, and frequently chronic inflammation of the inner surface of the stomach and bowels, with a tenderness on pressure, and a soreness along its lower edge of the ribs.

SOMETIMES THERE IS A LOATHING of food, and at other times there is a voracious appetite. There is often a feeling of chilliness, and coldness of the feet and knees, and along the inside of the thighs—sour or bitter eructations, and sometimes a spitting or throwing up of the food after eating.

There is a feeling of oppression across the stomach and chest, as if pressed down by a weight; troublesome and often frightful dreams, low spirits, languor, want of energy, melancholy restlessness and discontentedness, dreaminess of mind—timorousness and a great deal of trouble, and a disposition to magnify everything, sometimes great watchfulness and an inability to sleep—at others great drowsiness, weariness, and disinclination to motion.

AT TIMES THE FACE is flushed, with more or less fever, especially at night or in the afternoon. Sometimes violent colics, and wandering pains in various parts of the body. Frequently there is a short hacking cough, with huskiness of the throat, and sometimes a very severe, dry, and hard cough, which is often mistaken for consumption. This cough often commences in the latter part of the night or early in the morning, and lasts for hours, frequently producing nausea and vomiting. If there be any expectoration, it is a tough, ropy, tenacious phlegm, which adheres to everything it touches. There are also frequently chronic pleurisy pains in various parts of the chest, which shift about from one part of the breast or side to the other. Sometimes abscesses form in the liver, and pressing upward on the lungs, produce constriction and cough, and breaking, discharge their contents into the lungs, whence it must be ejected by expectoration, or the patient is destroyed. Some persons are troubled with spasmodic twitches in various parts of the body, sometimes fainting and sighing, difficulty of breathing; reading or talking producing weariness. THERE IS A BEATING EXCITION near the pit of the stomach, with palpitation and fluttering of the heart; profusion of dandruff and loss of the hair; indeed, to sum up in a few words—a yellow, dirty, greasy appearance of the skin, a yellow or green tinge of the white of the eyes, an aching pain across the kidneys and hips, with irritation or heat in discharging urine—a sensation of fullness or distension across the abdomen, with tenderness on pressure—lowness of spirits, frightful dreams, acidity of stomach, with other dyspeptic symptoms, billious fevers, billious colics and billious diarrhœa and dysenteries, obstinate costiveness, intermittent and remittent fevers, jaundice, fever and ague, &c., all originate from the same cause—a deranged state of the liver. Violent remedies always do more harm than good, but, by a persevering use of these pills, all that can be desired will be accomplished.

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT is to give the patient, every night on going to bed, from two four Sanative pills; or enough of them to insure one and not more than two evacuations from the bowels next morning. The dose of the Pills can be increased or diminished at pleasure, so as to produce the above effect, and their use should be continued until a cure is completed; and also, at the same time give the Alterative three times a day, according to the directions, unless there is a want of appetite, with weakness and debility or symptoms of worms prevail, when, instead of the Alterative, give a teaspoonful of the Vermifuge, (mixed in a little cold water and sweetened to please the taste, about half an hour before each meal, until these symptoms are removed; and if there should be cough, or oppression about the throat or chest, then give the expectorant as often and in such doses as may be found necessary to quiet the cough and make expectoration easy.

The Sanative Pills, and all of DR. D. JAYNE'S Family Medicines, are sold by C. J. AGGARD and G. W. KESSLER, Altoona, and by Agents everywhere, from whom may also be obtained, gratis, Jayne's Medical Almanac and Guide to Health, containing besides a valuable calendar, a Catalogue of Diseases, together with the symptoms by which they may be known, and the proper remedies for their cure.

COUGHS, COLDS,
CONSUMPTION,
ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, ETC.

JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT
Has been for Thirty Years the STANDARD REMEDY.

RECENT COUGHS AND COLDS, PLEURITIC PAINS, ETC., are quickly and effectually cured by its diaphoretic, soothing and expectorant power.

ASTHMA is always cured. It overcomes the spasmodic contraction of the air-vessels, and by producing free expectoration at once removes all difficulty of breathing.

BRONCHITIS readily yields to the Expectorant. It subdues the inflammation which extends through the wind-tubs, produces free expectoration, and suppresses at once the cough and pain.

CONSUMPTION.—For this insidious and fatal disease no remedy on earth has ever been found so effectual. It subdues the inflammation, relieves the cough and pain, removes the difficulty of breathing, and produces an easy expectoration, whereby all irritating and obstructing matters are removed from the lungs.

WHOOPING COUGH is promptly relieved by this Expectorant. It shortens the duration of the disease one-half, and greatly mitigates the suffering of the patient.

In all PULMONARY COMPLAINTS, in CROUP, PLEURISY, etc., it will be found to be prompt, safe, pleasant and reliable, and may be, especially commended to Ministers, Teachers, and Singers, for the relief of hoarseness, and for strengthening the organs of the voice.

This Expectorant and all of DR. D. JAYNE'S Family Medicines are sold by C. J. AGGARD and G. W. KESSLER, Altoona, and by Agents everywhere. [sep. 26-1m

LOCAL ITEMS.

SOLDIER FROM ALTOONA SHOT.—We find the following account of a melancholy occurrence in the camp of the 1st District of Columbia Volunteers, in the Press of Saturday last:—"Private Sybil, in Capt. Rodier's company, District Volunteers, was shot last night, and lies in a critical condition at the hospital to-day. He was in his camp, asleep, when a private in Regt., a real Baltimore plug-ugly, was brought into the camp in irons. He, however, got his hands through the handcuff, and commenced pelting the bricks out of the fire-place, and throwing them violently at the guard. Presently he seized a musket and aimed it at Lieut. Col. Towers, who escaped the charge, which lodged in the thigh of Private Sybil, then lying asleep. The limb is horribly mangled and cannot be saved, and the recovery of the man is very doubtful. Sybil is from Altoona, Blair county, Pa., where he has a wife, to whom, a few days ago, he sent twenty-five dollars, out of twenty-six dollars received as his dues up to the 1st of November.

HOW THE YOUNG IDEA LEARNS TO SHOOT.—At a recent examination of pupils at a country school, says a cotemporary of ours, the following questions were asked by the Superintendent: What is an isosceles triangle? What is a scalene triangle? What is an acute-angled triangle? What is the diagonal of a quadrangle? What is the diagonal of a quadrangle or quadrilateral? Define a polygon; the base and altitude of a figure; the radius and tangent of a circle. How do you find the area of a rhombus? To all of which an ingenious "laddybuck" replied that he didn't know; but that he did know that the cheapest, finest and largest stock of goods in Altoona to-day is to be found upon the shelves of Messrs. Murphy & McPike, corner of Virginia and Caroline streets, where everybody who wishes to save money—(and who don't?)—should make it a point to call, at the earliest moment, and secure bargains that are not to be met with every day.

☞ The Hollidaysburg Whig, of the 15th inst. makes a very unjust insinuation in reference to the man who has charge of the Post Office in this place. We are not sure whether allusion is made to the Post Master, or his clerk, but in either case it is gratuitous and erroneous. Had the Editors of the Whig stated the cause of their attack, it would have put a different face on the matter. If they wish the Post Master or his clerk to act as their agent to coax people to lift the Whig out of their office, after they order it to be returned to the office of publication, we think they have taken the wrong plan to secure them as such. There is fully as much reason to suspect the loyalty of some other men as those who attend the Altoona Post Office, and the country would be equally as well rid of others as of them.

ANDERSON'S BODY GUARD.—This corps, comprising 163 picked men, now quartered at Carlisle Barracks, have received their uniforms and equipments, horses included, and expect to leave for Kentucky on Friday or Saturday of this week. This county has some four or five representatives in the Guard among whom are our former townsmen Wm. Domer and J Wells Collins. This Guard is composed of men selected with special reference to their fitness for important positions, civil as well as military.—They are uniformed in dark blue cloth, trimmed with red, blue overcoats, and black felt hats with the initial letters R. A. and a brass on the front.

NEWSPAPER BLANKETS.—Some time since an item ran the rounds of the newspapers to the effect that a newspaper placed between the bedclothes added greatly to the warmth of the covering. Very little attention was given to the statement at first, but intelligent persons say that it is really true, and that a newspaper under the counterpane or under the jacket is really very effective in keeping the body comfortable. Texture of paper is so close that it both keeps out the cold air and keeps in the bodily warmth better than cloth.

BOUND FOR DIXIE.—Col. Power's regiment of First Keystone Zouaves, to which Capt. Wayne's company, from this place, is attached, has been ordered to South Carolina, and took their departure some days since. Previous to leaving Harrisburg, they were drawn up in line on the Capitol grounds, to receive a stand of colors. Gov. Curtin presented the colors, and, in the course of his remarks, said—"Your destination is South Carolina, where this rebellion first began, and I hope you will be present when Charleston is laid in ashes!"

☞ As far as heard from, our Thanksgiving turkey is non est, but, thanks to our good old friend, Joe Metzgar, we are not without equally as acceptable a roast for our dinner to day. Joe never forgets his "printer friends," and we can assure the world that the man who don't forget the printer will never forget any of his friends. May abundant prosperity attend our old friend through life, and his coop always contain an extra fowl for the printer's Thanksgiving.

☞ We notice that the publication office of the Whig in this place is at Fettinger's Emporium, No. 1, Altoona House. We congratulate our old friend Fet. on this valuable acquisition to the varieties of his establishment. Fet. is looking up. No doubt the Whig will become as great an attraction to Fet's. Emporium as the "What Is It?" is to Barnum's New York Museum.

THANKSGIVING.—At a meeting of the ministers of the different denominations in this place, held last week, it was decided to hold a union meeting in the Methodist Church, at 10½ o'clock A. M., when Rev. C. L. Ehrenfeld will deliver a sermon appropriate to the occasion. We desire to see a general turn out to church and an entire suspension of business to-day.

☞ Reader, have you seen Prof. Wood's advertisement in our paper. Read it; it will interest you.

Sabbath School Convention.

The Sabbath School Convention for Juniata district assembled in the M. E. Church in Tyrone on Tuesday evening Nov. 5th 1861. Owing to the recent flood and inclement weather the Convention was not large but its proceedings were spirited and interesting, and could not fail to leave a good impression upon all present.

Rev. E. W. Kirby was chosen President pro tem and E. B. Snyder, Sec'y. After appropriate religious services, which were conducted by the President, Rev. W. L. Spotswood delivered a most pointed and impressive sermon upon the importance of Sabbath School instruction, which was well received by the Convention.

On Wednesday morning, Rev. G. D. Chenowith, P. E. of the district arrived, and on motion of Rev. E. W. Kirby, was unanimously elected permanent president. An important feature of the Convention was the children's meeting, which commenced at 10½ o'clock A. M. on Wednesday. The singing by the children of appropriate hymns was done with a will and reflected great credit upon the school. Appropriate addresses were delivered by Revt's. G. D. Chinowith, E. W. Kirby, and the Sec'y. The time of the Convention was occupied mainly in discussing and passing the following resolutions, which we commend to all who feel any interest in the moral well being of the young.

Resolved, 1. That we will, as ministers and members of the church, encourage the establishment of Sabbath Schools in all our congregations.

Resolved, 2. That it is the duty of the members of the church, and parents, to attend the Sabbath School with their children.

Resolved, 3. That it is important that our Sabbath Schools be continued during the winter season, and as ministers and members, it is our duty to assist in their continuance, and urge the same.

Resolved, 4. That we recommend that the officers and teachers of the Sabbath School be persons of piety.

Resolved, 5. That it is the duty of our preachers to attend, when practicable, the Sabbath Schools in their charges, and impart such instructions as may tend to promote the moral well being of the children.

Resolved, 6. That we recommend our Sabbath Schools to use such books as are published at our Book Concern.

Resolved, 7. That we recommend the organization of Bible Classes for the youths and adults of our Sabbath Schools and congregations.

Resolved, 8. That we recommend to all our Sabbath Schools the "Sunday School Advocate" and "Teacher's Journal."

Resolved, 9. That we recommend to all our Sabbath Schools increased attention to our catechism.

Resolved, 10. That we recommend the formation of our Sabbath Schools into Missionary Societies.

Resolved, 11. That we recommend to our Sabbath Schools increased attention to the subject of Temperance, and that we will discourage the use of tobacco

Resolved, 12. That it is the judgment of this Convention that one Sabbath in the quarter should be set apart in all our Sabbath Schools, for the purpose of holding Temperance meetings.

The following is the report of the Committee on the state of the country, which was unanimously adopted.

WHEREAS, Our once quiet and happy country is now in a state of disquietude and civil war, brought on by the rising of Southern men in rebellion against it; AND WHEREAS, It becomes all good and loyal citizens to exhibit their devotion to their country by giving expression of their sympathy with it; Therefore,

Resolved, 1. That we pledge ourselves to stand by the Government in the present alarming crisis, and will, to the best of our ability, sustain those in authority over us.

Resolved, 2. That, as ministers and laymen, in order to prevent in the future history of our country, another rebellion like the present, we will teach the children under our care that patriotism and devotion to our country is a duty enjoined by expediency and christianity.

Resolved, 3. That inasmuch as it is "Righteousness that exalteth a nation," whilst "sin is a reproach to any people," therefore the Sabbath School is a place where the character of the true patriot may be formed, and a foundation laid upon which a nation may build solid hopes for future prosperity.

Resolved, 4. That we will always remember our beloved country at a throne of grace, praying that God may give success to our army, and bring us out of this war washed from every national crime, and pure as a nation should be pure.

J. A. COLEMAN,
JAMES C. CLARK,
E. B. SNYDER.

We also submit the report of the Committee on Sabbath School Conventions, which was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Sabbath School cause needs the united and associated efforts of all its advocates, to make it successful in the consummation of all that it designs to accomplish, Therefore,

Resolved, 1. That an annual Convention of the preachers and laymen of the Juniata District is essential.

Resolved, 2. That we will do all we can, in Convention assembled, to promote the Sabbath School cause.

Resolved, 3. That the Convention meet next year on the second Tuesday in June.

Resolved, 4. That we will use our utmost endeavors to secure a full attendance of the preachers and laymen of the Juniata District.

E. W. KIRBY,
W. A. HOUCK,
JOHN D. STEWART.

The Convention resolved to hold its next session in Petersburg, Huntingdon county, Pa.

E B. SNYDER, Sec'y.

THE SIDEWALKS.—We think the High Constable would be justified in returning one-half the board-walks in this place as a nuisance—if not really dangerous to pedestrians. We have so often before mentioned this matter with so little success, that we deem this almost useless, yet we have a hope that a few of our citizens, who notice the dilapidated condition of their walks, will be kind enough to repair them. Those who persist in leaving man-traps in the walks in front of their property should be made repair them, and that, too, before the winter fully sets in.

POULTRY, &c.—Philip Halton would inform the citizens of Altoona, who are in want of turkeys, chickens, eggs, butter, etc., that he has on hand an excellent stock, which he will sell at prices as reasonable as any other huckster in the town. Call at his residence, near East Ward school rooms, and choose for yourselves.

☞ There is a farmer in Putnam county, N. Y., who has a mile of children. His name is Furlong, and he has eight boys and girls. "Eight furlongs one mile."

TERRIBLE EXPLOIT OF A RIFLE CANNON BALL.—The Boston Courier publishes a letter of a correspondent on board the U. S. steamer Mass., off Ship Island, October 26, giving an account of the affair between that vessel and a Rebel steamer, in which the following extraordinary exploit of a rifle cannon ball is chronicled:

"During the action I think we hit her four times, and I know she hit us with a 60 pound rifle shell, (that is the way we got the exact size of her rifled gun.) The shell entered on our starboard quarter, just above the iron part of the hull; it came through the side angling aft, as we were a little abaft his beam when it struck us,) and took the deck in the passage way, between two state-rooms, and completely cut off eighteen of the deck plank, and then struck a beam, which canted it up a little so that it took the steam heating pipes under our dining table, cutting off five of them, and tearing our dining table all to pieces—then went through the stae-room bulkhead and ceiling of the ship on the opposite side, and struck one of the outside timbers, and broke every outside plank abreast of it short off, from the spar to the gun deck; it then fell down on to the cabin deck and exploded, knocking four state rooms into one, breaking all the glass and crockery wear, shattering the cabin very badly, breaking up the furniture, and setting fire to the ship; but we had three streams of water upon the fire at very short notice, and put it out before it did any damage—keeping up our chase as though nothing had happened."

NO MORE ARMS FROM ENGLAND.—Letters received by the Asia state that the British Government refuses to grant clearances from English ports to vessels having on board arms for the United States. Agents who are now abroad purchasing arms for the Government or for arm importers, will hereafter be compelled to ship them from Bremen, Havre, or some other continental port. This is only carrying out more strictly than heretofore the Queen's proclamation of neutrality, which forbade the shipment of all articles contraband of war to "either of the belligerents."

SKATING ACCIDENT.—A sad and fatal accident occurred on Thursday in Harvard, Mass. Four boys, one fourteen years of age named Hiram Hapgood, two others twelve and fourteen years of age, sons of Josiah Rand, and a lad named Munroe, were skating on a mill pond, and had proceeded about one or two rods from the shore, when the ice gave way, and all were precipitated into the water. Munroe succeeded in reaching the shore, but the other three sunk and were drowned.

☞ It is stated that the people of Charleston were so confident of gaining a brilliant victory in the late engagment that the elite of the city had proceeded to Beaufort in the same style as the Union civilians went to Centreville to witness their expected triumph. The success of our fleet compelled them to precipitately retire, panic-stricken and dismayed.

AMMUNITION FOR KENTUCKY.—All powder and lead owned by the city of Louisville, consisting of 750 kegs of the former, and 8 tons of the latter, has been transferred to Indiana. It will be manufactured into cartridges at the Indianapolis arsenal, and sent back to the Indiana troops in Kentucky.

☞ Adams' Express took from Boston about fifty tons of "thanksgiving fixings" for the Massachusetts volunteers in the vicinity of Washington. The principal part of this large quantity of eatables was sent by the families of the soldiers.

☞ The just man will flourish in spite of envy.

PROF. O. J. WOOD'S
RESTORATIVE CORDIAL
AND
BLOOD RENOVATOR.

IS precisely what its name indicates, for while pleasant to the taste, it is revivifying, exhilarating and strengthening to the vital powers. It also revivifies, reinstates and renews the blood in all its original purity, and thus restores and renders the system invulnerable to attacks of disease. It is the only preparation ever offered to the world in a popular form so as to be within the reach of all.

So chemically and skillfully combined as to be the most powerful tonic, and yet so perfectly adapted so as to act in perfect accordance with the laws of nature, and hence soothe the weakest stomach and tone up the digestive organs, and allay all nervous and other irritations. It is also perfectly exhilarating in its effects, and yet it is never followed by lassitude or depression of spirits. It is composed entirely of vegetables, and those thoroughly combining powerful tonic and soothing properties, and consequently can never injure. As a sure preventive and cure of

CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, LOSS OF APPETITE, FAINTNESS, NERVOUS IRRITABILITY, NEURALGIA, PALPITATION OF THE HEART, MELANCHOLY, NIGHT SWEATS, LANGUOR, GIDDINESS, AND ALL THAT CLASS OF CARES SO FEARFULLY FATAL CALLED FEMALE WEAKNESS, AND IRREGULARITIES.

THERE IS NOTHING ITS EQUAL.

Also, Liver Derangements or Torpidity, and Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Kidney, or any general derangement of the Urinary organs.

It will not only cure the debility following CHILLS and FEVER, but prevent all attacks arising from Miasmatic influences, and cure the diseases at once, if already attacked.

Travelers should have a bottle with them, as it will infallibly prevent any deleterious consequences following upon change of climate and water.

As it prevents costiveness, strengthens the digestive organs, it should be in the hands of all persons of sedentary habits.

Ladies not accustomed to much out-door exercise should always use it.

Mothers should use it, for it is a perfect relief, taken a month or two before the final trial, she will pass the dreadful period with perfect ease and safety.

There is no mistake about it.

THE CORDIAL IS ALL WE CLAIM FOR IT!
MOTHERS TRY IT!!

And to you we appeal, to detect the illness or decline not only of your daughters before it be too late, but also your sons and husbands, for while the former from false delicacy, often go down to a premature grave, rather than let their condition be known in time, the latter are often so mixed up with the excitement of business, that if it were not for you, they too, would travel in the same downward path until it is too late to arrest their fatal fall. But the mother is always vigilant, and to you we confidently appeal; for we are sure your never-failing affection will unerringly point you to PROF. WOOD'S RESTORATIVE CORDIAL AND BLOOD RENOVATOR as the remedy which should always be on hand in time of need.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN COOKING STOVES:

CONSUMPTION OF SMOKE AND GAS AND SAVING OF FUEL.

The subscriber takes pleasure in offering to the public NEW GAS AND SMOKE CONSUMING

Cooking Stove, recently patented, which is destined to supercede all others, as it requires

than other stoves and is more easily, quickly and regularly heated. No unpleasant smell of gas arises from this stove from the fact that it is all consumed ere it can escape. There is no trouble from smoke as that unpleasant and often annoying exhalation is also consumed inside of the stove. Neither is there any danger of flues or chimneys becoming clogged with soot or the mortar loosened by the gas arising from coal fires.

Persons wishing to purchase stoves are invited to call at the store of the subscriber, in the Masonic Temple, and examine the above stoves. JOHN SHOEMAKER, Sole Agent for Blair County.
